TUESDAY, APRIL 27. 1736.

1736.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland.

Rome, April 4. O. S.

IN spite of all the wise Precautions taken by this Court, its Troubles rather increase than diminish. Cardinal Acquaviva having some Recruits at his Palace, which were to be sent to Naples, demanded a Passport of the Ministry for that Purpose, and offer'd that they might first of all be examin'd, the End that it might be known whether any of the Officers were forced into the Service. The Marquis Crescenzi went to the Palace of Spain, and having examined some of them, Prince Bartholomew Corfini caused the Recruits to go on board last Thursday with four of their Officers; and the Keeper of the Castle of Finimicino being informed that they had a Passport, did not offer to search or stop them: the Sea was not altogether so complaisant; for the Ship had scarce gone two Miles, but a high Wind oblig'd her to make to Shore again, where she staid till Sunday Night, for fair Weather: That very Night some of the Recruits leaping overboard into the Tyber, ran to Ostia on the other Shore, where the Salt-Pits were, and telling the Workmen who he was, and whence he came, and that there were several other Soldiers, and Men as well as himself, on board the Vessel whence he had escaped, and who, without their Assistance, would be forced to end their Days in a Far-ther Country, the Workmen, to the Number of 24, with many more ado, ran to the Bark, set all the Recruits at Liberty, seized the four Officers, oblig'd them to sign a Long live the Emperor, and carried them to Ostia, where they clapp'd them up in an old Tower.

The Court no sooner received Advice of this unhappy Affair last Sunday, but the Cardinals Corfini and Firrao were sent to carry the News to Cardinal Acquaviva, who had already heard it from two Soldiers that had been on board the Vessel, and his Secretary was got to the Cavallo, to complain of it, even while those Cardinals were there. The Complaint was heard, and the Day the Deputy Governor was sent to Ostia, with a Notary, to take an Account of the whole Affair, who are not yet returned.

Mean time Cardinal Acquaviva has dispatched a Courier to Spain, to know what Satisfaction he must demand; for he insists on it that, according to the Examination taken by the Marquis Crescenzi, there was one press'd Man on board the Vessel; but People are of another Mind, and they think that Crescenzi, and perhaps, the Cardinal too, have been imposed upon by the Spanish Major General, who, in Room of such Recruits as had pass'd Examination, sent those Men on board afterwards, who had really been forc'd into the Service. Be this as it will, the Court has also sent a Courier to Madrid, to prevent Impression which the Spanish Minister's Complaint may make upon his Master; and, in all Appearance, Expresses will follow, because of some fresh Steps taken, with which this Court is not at all pleas'd.

On Thursday an Inlifter, known at the Palace of Spain, and who had pick'd up a pretty deal of Money by Calling, wheedled two Strangers to the Palace, and delivered them to the Spaniards, as Men fit to carry off; but there having been other Orders put up at the Palace Gate than heretofore, the two Strangers being foundly thres'd, he was sent packing with a great deal at his Back, denoting his Crime. Yesterday Cardinal Acquaviva caus'd Papers to be fix'd up at all Publick Places, and Corners of the Streets, importing that whoever will bring the Lord Cardinal Acquaviva an Account of any Inlifters of Soldiers for Spain, or any other Place, shall have 50 Crowns Reward, and his Name conceal'd.

These two Actions of the Cardinal being irregular, as 'tis here believ'd, inchoating upon the Pope's Sovereignty, his Holiness's Ministers, in Order to remedy it in Time, immediately order'd a Notary, accompanied by some Marshal's Men and Witnesses, to go and tear down those Papers where-ever they found them; which was done every where in the Afternoon, except in the Square of Spain and its Avenues. Mean time the Cardinal, who thinks he has done nothing but what is conformable to the Law of Nations, talks big, and demands swiftness Satisfaction. He has also dispatch'd a Courier to Spain upon this Subject; and not content with this Precaution, has sent Orders to the 3000 Spaniards that were passing by the Skirts of this Neighbourhood, in their Way to Naples, to halt at Monte Rotondo, Tivoli, and other Places, where they now are, so that on that Side we are in a Manner block'd up.

More Alarms still! The Government thinking they can't be too much on their Guard against a Populace, who are always either raving mad, or obsequious to a Degree of Slavery, continues its Measures to keep them in Awe. The Country Militia has not only been sent for, but the City-Guard has been augmented with 200 Men; and, on Thursday last, 140 Men arriv'd from the Garrison of Civita Vecchia, who are to be follow'd by more; but these Measures, instead of intimidating the Populace, do but exasperate them; and a new Insurrection is actually brewing: For the Gun-Powder Merchants gave Notice Yesterday to the Government, that they had sold a greater Quantity of it this Week than they had done in four Years Time; and this Morning we were inform'd, that all the Fire-Arms which were pledg'd to those Pawn-brokers that keep the Banks which are called Mounts of Piety, have been redeem'd by the Owners; upon which News the Government immediately issued Orders to barricade the Bridges of Quatre Capi and Sixtus V. and has not only plac'd a good Guard at the former, and reinforc'd that at the latter, but they talk of shutting up five of the City-Gates.

The Pope went yesterday to the Church of St. Mary Major. 'Tis now 13 Months since his Holiness has appear'd in Publick; yet, 'tis observ'd, that he is in good Health; which that it may long continue, is the Prayer of all that wish well to this Church; because if he should happen to die at this Crisis, every Thing wou'd go to wreck, and be turn'd topsy-turvy.

The Son of our Fiscal, who was suspended on the Affair of Capt. Donghi, is, by the Goodness of the Emperor, pardon'd, and restor'd to the Exercise of his Office; and the Beadle who stopp'd the Captain's Coach, and was therefore committed to the Publick Gaol, is sent home to his own House, which is to be his Prison, till Orders come about him from the Court of Vienna; and the 12 Marshal's Men that were sent to the Gallies, return'd hither from Civita Vecchia, upon the Solicitation of the said Imperial Minister, to whom an authentick Act was deliver'd, certifying that they had actually row'd on board the Gallies.

The Inhabitants on the other Side of the Tyber were just ready to rise a Day or two ago, upon Account of one of their Champions being kill'd by a Corporal of the City Guard; and they actually went in a Body to the Prince de St. Croce, to demand Justice, who thereupon caus'd the Corporal and two of his Men to be taken up and committed to Prison, with which the Mob was pacify'd.

Bastia, in the Isle of Corsica, March 25. O. S. We are under a very great Surprize here, by Reason of a certain Foreigner of Distinction, who is arriv'd upon the Island, and has been receiv'd by the Malecontents with open Arms. The Account we have of him is as follows:

About a Fortnight ago three arriv'd at the Port of Aleria, which is in the Possession of the Malecontents, an English Ship, which, 'tis said, came from Tunis, with a Passport from the English Consul. On board this Ship there came a Person whose Habit denoted him to be of Distinction, and as soon as he landed he was received with great Honours by the Chiefs of the Malecontents, who complimented him with the Title of Excellency, and Viceroy of Corsica. This Foreigner had in his Retinue fifteen Persons, in which Number was a Lieutenant Colonel, and another Officer, a Secretary, a Steward, a Chaplain, and a Major Domo. The Corsicans who welcom'd him to Shore, conducted him to the Palace of Cervione at Campo-Loro, which is the ordinary Residence of the Bishop of Aleria. This Foreigner calls himself Lord Theodore. The principal Malecontents know very well who he is, though they won't discover him; but the Office of Major Domo, which is exercised by a Person in his Retinue, gives some Reason to suspect that he is come from Spain. He appears to be of the Roman Catholick Religion, is always attended with Guards when he goes to Church, and is served at Table in nothing but Plate. He has caus'd two Pieces of Cannon to be planted before the Palace where he lodges, and has four hundred Soldiers for his standing Guard. In short, he causes himself to be treated every where with all the Marks of Honour and Distinction. He has landed out of the Ship that brought him over, 10 Pieces of Cannon, 4000 Muskets, 3000 Pair of Shoes, several Trunks and Portmanteau's, several Chests full of Gold and Silver, and one large Chest full of Chequins, Half Chequins, and Quarter Chequins, of the Coin of Barbary, 7000 Sacks of Corn, and a great Quantity of other Provisions; the whole amounting to the Value of Two Millions of Ducats. He has created four of the Chiefs of the Malecontents, Colonels, and assigned to each of them a Salary of 200 Livres per Month: He has declared one of the principal Inhabitants of Aleria a Knight, and has chose another for his Treasurer: he has formed twenty-four Companies of Soldiers, and has not only distributed all the Arms and all the Shoes that were on board the English Ship among the Corsican Malecontents, but has given to each of them a Piece of Money. We are assur'd that he is shortly to set out from Aleria, to reside at Cacincha, near the Fortrefs of St. Pelegrino, of which the Malecontents are also in Possession; and he says that next Month he expects four Ships more, with a powerful Supply. When he formed the twenty-four Companies of Soldiers above-mentioned, he appointed all the Captains, and declared that their Numbers should be increased to a Hundred.

The Arrival of this Foreigner has given Occasion to such Conjectures as are very extraordinary. The Malecontents give out that he is furnished with Letters Patent from the Pope, and three other Potentates, and that it will not be long before we shall know who he is, by the Arrival of a Squadron of Men of War. They add moreover, that this Island will immediately be subject to some other Master; which has caused an inexpressible Consternation here, for fear lest the Malecontents should come to besiege this Place both by Sea and Land.

Venice, April 10. O. S. Letters of the 3d of last Month from Constantinople say, That the Preparations for the War with Persia, are carry'd on as hotly as if it was but just begun; and that the British Ambassador at the Porte, going on board the English Man of War, that is to carry him home, and being saluted thereupon by the Cannon of the said Ship, the Grand Vizier sent to inform him, that it was impertinent for any Foreigner to receive, or to procure to himself, that Honour at Constantinople.

Vienna, April 10. O. S. The Death of Prince Eugene of Savoy, Velt Marshal General of the Arms of the Emperor and the Empire, and President of the Aulic Council of War, &c. who was this Morning found dead in his Bed, tho' he was Yesterday very gay with Company, whom he entertained at Dinner, without making the least Complaint, has cast this City and Court into such a Consternation as does more Honour to his immortal Memory, than can redound to it from the Panegyrics of all the Orators in the World: 'Tis supposed by some that he was choak'd by an immoderate Desfluxion of Rheum, with which he was now and then troubled.

Preparations are making for the Publick Rejoicings for the Peace, and an Amphitheatre is to be built for a Battle of Wild Beasts.

The Aulic Council of the Empire had pass'd Sentence of Death upon M. Hayl, Secretary to Charles Leopold Duke of Mecklenberg, on his being convicted of having encouraged that Prince in his Opposition to the Emperor's Orders, and of having spoke disrespectfully of his Imperial Majesty and his Council; but the Emperor has been so merciful as to change his Sentence to perpetual Imprisonment in the Fortrefs of Spielberg in Moravia, to which he is to be forthwith carried.

Copenhagen, April 13. O. S. The King mark's late Order against Luxury in Apparel and Sexes has had so good Effect, that the Ladies have appeared at Court for three Days past, without Diamonds and Pearls. The Order prohibits also the Wear of Stuffs of Gold and Silver, and rich Laces.

Dresden, April 13. O. S. They write from Warfaw, That the King has given Notice to several Polish Parties, who still commit great Disorders, that they shall be pardon'd, in Case they submit before the Middle of May next; but that otherwise they must expect Military Execution, and that all that can be apprehended shall be hang'd up, without Form of Process, as Traitors, and Disturbers of the Publick Tranquility.

Hamburg, April 16. O. S. 'Tis reported, That our Differences with the Danish Court are amicably adjusted, and that next Sunday the King's Order for renewing the Commerce with this City, will be publish'd from the Pulpits of all the Churches in Danish Holstein.

Yarmouth, April 23. This Day the Sessions ended here, and Yesterday the Women were try'd for the Murder of the Dutchman; and about Three in the Afternoon the Jury were sent out, and did not bring in their Verdict till Nine or Ten this Forenoon, when they brought in Elizabeth Tompson guilty of the Murder, who is condemn'd to be hang'd. I hear the chief Evidence against her was Ann Hudson from Norwich Gaol, and Cock of Yarmouth; Hudson prov'd, by several Witnesses, that she was in the House when the Murder was committed: Several Evidences were brought to confute her, but without Effect. And Cock said, That she, the said Tompson, came to his House, and, throwing herself on his Bed, told him, She was very much ruffled, for the Officers had been at her House to search for four Half Anchors of Brandy, but they were all got off and secured. But he reply'd, I hear worse than all that, for 'tis reported the Dutchman was murdered at your House. Upon which she swore, and said, As to that, all is off, and they have no Proof of it.

Also Elizabeth Parker, her Mother, is bound over to the next Sessions, for keeping a Disorderly House. The other Women, viz. Mary Bunn, and Ann Rix of Yarmouth, Ann Price of Woodbridge, Agnes Gobbet of Bungay, Elizabeth Jacks and Sarah Green (commonly call'd Myrtilla) of Norwich, were all acquitted.

Thomson Hall of Gorleston, and Margaret Grimes of Yarmouth, were tried for Shoplifting, found guilty, and order'd to be Transported. One Ben. Oxon of Blofield, for stealing a Sack of Beans, was whipt; and John Burrows of Bedingham was try'd for having two Wives, and acquitted.

Norwich, April 24. Last Sunday Evening, Mr. Lombe of Shipdham was robbed between Brandon and Barton-Mills, of about 11 l. by two Highwaymen, who were both taken that Evening at Brandon, and are since committed to Bury Gaol: One of them is said to belong to Brandon aforesaid.

Worcester, April 21. On Monday last was executed near this City Hum. Moufall for Horse-stealing, and Wm. Morgan and Wm. Bithell, both in their Shrouds and Hand in Hand, for cutting down Turnpikes, the other Repriev'd. Near 100 Soldiers, with their Bayonets fix'd to the End of their Muskets, under the Command of their respective Officers, attended the Execution, which was as quiet as any ever known. They made no Confession at the Gallows, but their Behaviour was decent; and as soon as they ended their Prayers, and the Ropes tied round their Necks, the Cart drew off. 'Tis said Morgan died a Papist. We hear that Moufall had been condemn'd once before for Horse-stealing at Warwick.

It is to be observed, (For the Satisfaction of all Persons, who are fearful and doubtful of using any Publick Medicine)

That there never was, nor will be, a good and beneficial Medicine published to the World, without finding Enemies whose Interest it is, not only to decry and vilify, but also to counterfeit it; and the better the Medicine, the greater the Opposition: Therefore all doubtful People should have Recourse to Experience, the infallible Attender of Truth, without Prejudice or Partiality. Let them enquire of the Sound of the Medicine, either where it is sold, but rather of those who have used it; and if they are informed the Effect of answer the Intentions, let them freely use it, without regarding what Malice, Interest, or Prejudice may suggest against it.
